

SANCO continues to grow:
new partner companies in Poland and Italy

Ulm, October 2025. The SANCO Group is continuing on its path of growth, welcoming two new partner companies: Euroglass Sp. z o.o. from Poland and Vetreria Cappelletti & Roleri s.r.l. from Italy. With these additions, the alliance strengthens its position as Europe's largest network of insulating glass manufacturers and further expands its presence across European markets.

Euroglass Sp. z o.o. has been a family-owned business since 1993, with its headquarters and production facility in Lublin. The company manufactures high-quality insulating glass for both the construction and industrial sectors, supplying residential, office, and industrial projects alike. With around 30 employees and a 2,000 m² production hall, Euroglass is an established manufacturer of thermal insulation glass in various configurations. It becomes SANCO's tenth member company in Poland. Managing Director Zbigniew Hrabia sees clear advantages in the new partnership: 'Working with SANCO provides us with valuable support in sales, particularly through the SANCO certificates. In addition, the group's marketing materials and technical solutions offer significant added value for our customers and partners. We also expect to gain greater visibility in international customer relations.'

Vetreria Cappelletti & Roleri s.r.l. was founded in 1976 by Giorgio Roleri and Carlo Cappelletti. Since then, it has grown from a small craft enterprise into a leading glass processor in the Piacenza region. As early as 1987, the company invested in its own insulating glass production line – the first of its kind in the region. Today, the glassworks is run by the founders' sons and employs 15 people at its site in Settima. With state-of-the-art machinery, Cappelletti & Roleri offers tailor-made glass solutions for façades, construction projects, and interior applications.

Both new partner companies are convinced that the challenges facing the glass industry can best be met together. 'We value the professional exchange within the SANCO Group and see this partnership as an opportunity to strengthen our markets over the long term. Certification, technical support, and the alliance's international marketing strategy give us added confidence for future growth,' say Zbigniew Hrabia and Paolo Durante, speaking on behalf of both companies.

'With Euroglass and Cappelletti & Roleri, we're gaining two companies that share our values and fit perfectly into our network,' says Antonio Gioello, Head of SANCO Consulting. 'Both stand for top quality, many years of experience, and a strong spirit of innovation – an ideal addition to our European alliance.'
