

SANCO Group expands in Italy:
WOLF Fenster AG becomes new partner company

Ulm, August 2026. The SANCO Group is continuing its expansion across Europe. With WOLF Fenster AG in South Tyrol, Italy, the alliance welcomes a long-established, highly innovative new partner. The window manufacturer is currently expanding its capabilities by establishing its own insulating glass production facility. As it enters this new market segment, the company is joining Europe's leading network of insulating glass manufacturers.

For more than 60 years, WOLF Fenster has stood for innovative timber and timber-aluminium window systems, as well as bespoke architectural façade solutions. To achieve greater added value, flexibility, and independence within its production process, the South Tyrol-based company has invested in a state-of-the-art production facility and will now manufacture its own insulating glass.

Strategic partnership for the highest quality standards

To ensure a successful market launch, the company is drawing on the synergies and expertise available within the SANCO Group. Hans Augschöll, CEO of WOLF Fenster AG, highlights the strategic importance of joining the alliance: 'For us, it is essential to build on uncompromising quality and a proven, strong network right from the outset. The SANCO Group provides the ideal framework for this. Through close technical collaboration, access to proven system solutions, and integration in international marketing activities, we are laying the foundations for long-term success in the market.'

Strengthening SANCO's presence in Italy

With the addition of its new partner company, the alliance is further strengthening its presence in the Italian and Alpine markets. 'We are delighted to welcome WOLF Fenster AG to our network,' says Antonio Gioello, Head of the SANCO Group. 'The company brings extensive expertise in the building envelope and façade sector, making it an excellent fit with our values and our shared commitment to quality.'
